I. Introduction Despite the rapid process of urbanization observed in most developing and transition countries, poverty still remains a predominantly rural phenomenon (IFAD, 2001).

Rural Income Generating Activities in Developing Countries

The focus on human capital as a driver of economic growth for developing countries has led to undue attention on school attainment. Developing countries have made considerable progress in closing the gap with developed countries in terms of school attainment, but recent research has underscored the importance of cognitive skills for economic growth.
