Before the Second World War, researchers in the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, the Soviet Union, and the United States, independently and in great secrecy, developed technologies that led to the modern version of radar. Australia, Canada, New Zealand, and South Africa followed prewar Great Britain's radar development, and Hungary generated its radar technology ...

Missile guidance refers to a variety of methods of guiding a missile or a guided bomb to its intended target. The missile's target accuracy is a critical factor for its effectiveness. Guidance systems improve missile accuracy by improving its "Single Shot Kill Probability" (SSKP), which is part of combat survivability calculations associated with the salvo combat model.

4 LIDAR Operational Theory A pulse of light is emitted and the precise time is recorded. The reflection of that pulse is detected and the precise time is recorded. Using the constant speed of light, the delay can be converted into a "range" distance. Knowing the position and orientation of the sensor, the XYZ coordinate of the reflective

Radar er en forkortelse for RAdio Detection And Ranging. Grundprincippet i en radar er, at et radarsignal (kort impuls med en høj frekvens, typisk 1-40 GHz) udsendes fra en antenne i en retning. Hvis radarstrålen rammer en genstand (f.eks. et fly), reflekteres en lille del af strålen og opfanges af modtageren gennem antennen. Signalet forstærkes og ender som et 'blip' på en skærm.
